Why is it necessary to have an AED?

Quite simply it's a race against time!

Survival rates drop by over 10% for every minute that passes without defibrillation. After 10 minutes, the chances of survival are obviously extremely small. With an automated external defibrillator (AED) on-site, defibrillation can take place within 3 minutes, and on average the chances of survival are drastically increased by up to 70%.

What is Sudden Cardiac Arrest

Sudden cardiac arrest is a condition in which the heart suddenly and unexpectedly stops beating. If this happens, blood stops flowing to the brain and other vital organs. If the heartbeat is not restored with an electrical shock from a defibrillator immediately, death follows within minutes.

It's the world's biggest killer and it kills over 100,000 people per year in the UK alone. That's one person every 5 minutes! It can happen to anyone, anywhere and at any time.

Lifeline® is the simplest AED to use, and has been designed by physicians so that ANYONE can save a life. It only takes 4 seconds which is the quickest shock charge time on the market, comes with a 8 year warranty and an unique 7 year battery option.
